LIVING THE MISSION AT WALMART

Pearo Ackles works as a daily seed-sower for Jesus at Walmart.

John is a pious, hard-working Christian man. Once a construction foreman on large commercial projects in Milwaukee, he now works in retail.

Three of his sons are in full-time ministry, and he and his wife are foster parents who often adopt their charges. He awakens at 4:00 am each morning to pray and study, while his wife is a leader of a state-wide intercessory prayer organization. John truly loves

God, but he is not an Adventist Christian.

The ancient wise man said, "Cast thy bread upon the waters, for you will find it after many days." He added, "In the morning sow your seed, and in the evening do not withhold your hand; for you do not know which will prosper, either this or that, or whether both alike will be good" (Ecclesiastes 11:1,6). I see myself as a seed sower.

As Adventists we are blessed to have the finest Christian books, magazines, and tracts on the planet. Sometimes I give them directly as gifts, sometimes I just leave them at random for anyone. And sometimes I even open my mouth and share God's truths verbally. John has been on the receiving end of both, and has read a full-message Adventist book.

I recently have been reading Acts of the Apostles, and am conscious that I should view my secular work as Paul did his tent-making labors: "Paul did not regard as lost the time thus spent...As he worked at his trade, the apostle had access to a class of people that he could not otherwise have reached" (AA 351).

John's work schedule prevented him from attending our recent Revelation Seminar, but he loves prophecy, and eagerly received each of the lessons. He is convinced that we have "something" with the Sabbath.

I urge you to pray for John, and then go sow your own seeds!

MEET OUR SPEAKERS
NELSON ERNST

Weekday Seminar Presenter
Nelson Ernst is the co-founder and director of Giving Light to Our World (GLOW), a literature distribution ministry that is spreading across the world and has now printed nearly 20 million tracts.

Nelson was born and raised in an Adventist home in Michigan. In high school he got in an argument with a Jehovah's Witness, and went home determined to prove him wrong. Through his Bible study to win the argument, Nelson found Jesus and his own conversion.

Nelson began colporteur and soon graduated from a literature evangelism program at SOULS West. Since then he has been working for the Central California Conference. He also orchestrates GLOW activities in various conferences across North America and many other countries.

Immunity Allies: Into the Wild
People attending the "Immunity Allies" class are trying wild herbal teas each afternoon at the 2:15 pm seminar. Today, leaders Leah Hatcher and Sarah Hillebert will be serving Lemon Balm tea. On Wednesday, they will help attendees make wild herbal healing ointments to take home and, weather permitting, will lead a wild herb walk on the grounds.

Offerings Fund Cabin Roofs
Since the end of Camp Meeting 2011, nine camp meeting cabins have been re-roofed, thanks to the camp meeting development offering collected last year. Each cabin costs $700 to re-roof. Over 250 of approximately 300 cabins have now been re-roofed. This year's camp meeting expense offerings on Friday and Sunday totaled $1,009.88. Another camp meeting expense offering will be collected Friday.

BIBLE ENIGMA 1

I'm a consumable, if you're a lamb/I'm lay-down-on-able if you're a man/Though we're not enemies, this much is true:/ Your blade cuts me more than my blade cuts you.

Kevin Wilkinson

BIBLE ENIGMA 2

You'll find me in Exodus, but I'm Biblically rare/I'm more likely found in a map or a square/I'm first rate at shortening crosses for you/But I come in third last of two dozen and two

Passing On the Memories

"It smells exactly the same as I remember" said Chelsey McNulty, attending camp meeting for the first time in 15 years. "The smell of the pine trees, vegemeat, and fresh air – I know it's crazy, but it makes me want to cry." The familiarity goes beyond smells, though. "I bought a model airplane at the camp store just like my grandmother bought for my brother and I when we were kids," says McNulty. "I'm mailing it to my brother in Texas. I have such good memories of camp meeting. I want to bring my boys here every year so they can have the kind of memories my brother and I enjoy."

Question of the Day

WHAT IS YOUR CHURCH DOING TO BUILD COMMUNITY IN YOUR CHURCH?

Cherry Habenicht

Our church does a lot! We invite the community to concerts, seminars, a Christmas pageant and a vegetarian supper during Lent.

Deb Folkman

We are like family. When Pathfinders do a project, we all pitch in. We do things together on Sabbath afternoons, and keep connected by email during the week.

Bob Sachse

Work bees, fall festival, CHIP, VBS and picnics.

Margaret LaLonde

Small groups, potlucks, prayer meeting. A lot more needs to be done.

Keith Hendricksen

We are seeking how to make each church member important in the finishing of God's work. A simple smile and positive conversation when greeting each other is so important in building community in our church.

Shorty Mundt

After church we stay and watch Bible DVDs and study. It's neat!

Unicycle Gathering

Unicyclers gather at 1:00 every day outside Fireside Lodge. Participants are often willing let people try out their cycles and give them helpful pointers.

A Yearly Pilgrimage

"It's like a family reunion every year. All of our family come," say Brent and Marsha Barrett who travel from Tennessee with several kids each summer just to attend camp meeting and meet up with family. Brent was raised in Milwaukee, and still claims Wisconsin as home. The Barrett family enjoyed a picnic on front of Fireside Lodge on Monday afternoon.
