studies to others in our home. I'm a deacon in the Living Faith Adventist Church, and we love being involved in the mission of this church."

On vacation last November, Travis felt the Lord speaking to his heart. The words of Pastor Derek Morris, who he'd met at camp meeting last summer, kept ringing in his ear, "The harvest is great, but the laborers are few." Travis called Derek, and told of his plan to quit his business and do something for Jesus. Derek encouraged him to take some religion classes. "It was embarrassing for me to tell him I had only finished ninth grade," said Travis. "But he didn't make me feel bad, he just told me to go get my GED before January 1 so I could sign up for his class on "Life and Teachings of Jesus" at Southern Adventist University." Travis decided to do it.

The local technical college told Travis he could complete the GED tests by January, but he would probably not pass. The testing had been upgraded and only two people had passed over the previous year.

Ellen G. White Devotional Thought
GOD WILL PROVIDE

Many who profess to be Christ's followers have an anxious, troubled heart because they are afraid to trust themselves with God. They do not make a complete surrender to Him, for they shrink from the consequences that such a surrender may involve. Unless they do make this surrender they cannot find peace. There are many whose hearts are aching under a load of care because they seek to reach the world's standard. They have chosen its service, accepted its perplexities, adopted its customs. Thus their character is marred and their life made a weariness. The continual worry is wearing out the life forces. Our Lord desires them to lay aside this yoke of bondage. He invites them to accept His yoke; He says, "My yoke is easy, and My burden is light." Worry is blind and cannot discern the future; but Jesus sees the end from the beginning. In every difficulty He has His way prepared to bring relief. "No good thing will He withhold from them that walk uprightly." Matthew 11:30; Psalm 84:11.

Our heavenly Father has a thousand ways to provide for us of which we know nothing. Those who accept the one principle of making the service of God supreme, will find perplexities vanish and a plain path before their feet.

Travis Maloney's Testimony - Part 1

Travis Maloney grew up in an Adventist home but at age 15 his parents divorced and he was suddenly on his own. He had only finished ninth grade, but quit school, got his own apartment, and began working for a cattle dealer, bailing hay. At the age of 20 he started working construction, and soon after organized his own construction business. "I didn't go to church anymore," said Travis. "I figured I could never be good enough anyway, so just didn't worry about it. I was very successful, always had the newest truck, biggest and fastest boat... I felt stuff showed who you were."

Travis, deacon in the Living Faith Church said, "I'm so proud to be a member of the Adventist Church."

Seventeen years later Travis found himself chained to many bad habits, divorced, and thinking, "I can't keep living this way." He decided to visit the Pound Seventh-day Adventist Church where he had attended as a child. The people were nice, and after a few weeks gave him a Bible. "For the first time I started to read it for myself," said Travis, "and I was actually interested." Day by day at home with his Bible, Travis started to build a relationship with Jesus.

After about six months of reading the Bible and attending church, Travis started to feel differently about his life. He began setting aside some of his bad habits. "God truly does meet you where you are," said Travis. "The Holy Spirit kept saying, 'Hey, you know that's not good. If you love Me you shouldn't do this.'"

One Sabbath, Bill and Laura Labore from Adventist World Aviation (AWA) spoke on an urgent need in Guyana for a carpenter to come and do some building. Everyone looked at Travis saying, "You're perfect for this!" Travis wasn't too sure, but when the next Sabbath came around and the members handed Travis $1,200 for the plane ticket, Travis thought, "At this point there's no turning back. I don't want to let these people down."

Travis was still drinking, but those two weeks in Guyana steered him in a different direction. He got more involved in church activities and "I even gave up alcohol, tobacco, and eventually coffee, and other little things along the way. I just started living a different life." He began to realize that even though he could never be good enough, through Christ's righteousness he was good enough, and it changed his whole view of religion. "If I fall, Jesus is there to pick me up," said Travis. "That was good news for me. It just sort of lit a fire underneath me."

On February 25, 2012, Travis and his wife, Michelle, were baptized into the Pound SDA Church. "Now we give Bible
