CAMP LAMP

Sabbath, June 25

Revive Us, O Lord

As this camp meeting is drawing to a close, my mind turns to the song that we have been singing all week, "Fill us Lord, this very hour, infuse us with Your sacred pow'r..."

Have you sensed Him working in your heart? Have you felt God calling you to commit yourself completely to Him? Have you made that choice to serve Him completely?

God is looking for willing hearts; people who have dedicated themselves completely to Him. He is looking for people He can trust. He is looking for people who will humbly ask "What can I do for you today, Lord" and then listen and respond. He is looking for people who will reflect His character in their lives. He is desiring that we will be His ambassadors in our communities.

God is looking for a group of people (yes, a church) He can safely trust to care for lost and hurting souls. He is looking for churches that are havens of refuge for people who rarely set foot in church. He desires that our churches be places where babies in Christ will be nurtured and will grow.

When I was ten my mother brought home a brand new baby. Even though she was a foster child, we got to name her, and we raised her for her first one and a half years. With tears we saw her leave for an adoptive home. When she was almost three, my mother heard that the adoption had been called off because the family had split up. After much persuasion with the courts, my little foster sister returned to our home. As she walked in she exclaimed with excitement "This is my house."

When people who need to know Jesus walk into our churches or homes, do they exclaim "This is my house!" because they have experienced God's love through you? As we will soon return to our homes, may our lives reflect the prayer of our song. "Revive us, O Lord, that as your people we might be all that You would have us be... Do, O Lord, what You must do to turn Your people's hearts to You, Revive Us, O Lord."

"If My people who are called by My name will humble themselves, and pray and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin and heal their land."
2 Chronicles 7:14

Scripture Enigma

Afar they watch my whole arise,
Its summit seems to touch the skies;
"When all is done,"
the crowds exclaim,
"Then shall we make
ourselves a name!"
Remove a letter, and behold!
A shepherd issue from his fold,
With blood devoutly draws he nigh,
Himself, alas! how soon to die.
Remove a letter still, and now
Before an idol-god they bow;
To wood and stone is worship paid,
And men adore what
men have made.
Remove a letter yet once more,
We see an altar stained with gore;
And he who built it names it thus,
To teach a precious truth to us.

Friday's Answer: Submission

Heaven

Will heaven be like
camp meeting?
What do you think, my friend?
Will it be a place of fellowship,
Where food and stories
never end?
Will heaven be like
camp meeting?
Where everyone's like family?
Will we all come together
for meetings,
And all sing in harmony?
Will heaven be like
camp meeting?
Gladly leaving TV's and
computers behind.
Will we miss them or even talk
about them,
Or find other things to
occupy our minds?
Heaven may be a little like
camp meeting,
But one thing is for sure.
Jesus will be our main speaker,
And the food and weather
will be pure!

God Is So Good To Me

When I stand at the end of the walkway and look down to the other end, many memories come back to me. I remember walking that path with my future wife, Charlyn, when we were teenagers. I probably wasn't thinking it at the time, but I'm thinking it now; God is so good to me.

Our campsite used to be beyond bathroom 4. There is a hill between bathroom 4 and 3. I remember taking Adele and Jared to their meetings in a wagon. When we got to that hill, I would jump in the wagon and ride down the hill with them. I can still hear their laughter ringing through the woods. I remember thinking, God is good to me.

I remember my daughter, Adele, wanting to walk to kindergarten by herself for the first time. I followed her along the walkway, hiding behind trees and cabins close enough so I could see her, but far enough so she could not see me. She knew the way. I remember thinking, God is so good to me.

I remember Jared singing with the primary class in the main tent. There was a tornado warning. Elder Corkum told the parents to pick up their primaries at Fireside Lodge and go to a shelter. Jared didn't go there. I walked from shelter to shelter in the pouring rain looking for him. I finally found him, and the worst of the storm passed us by. God is so good to me.

I remember the time we were packing to go home Sunday morning, and Jared had a seizure. I remember looking up and seeing my friend Bob Sachse sprinting down the walkway to come help. Two years later, Jared was seizure free. God is good to me.

This year I watched Adele walking down the path to the pavilion where she sang beautifully for special music. I watched her leading out in children's divisions she used to attend. God is good to me.

As my children go off to academy and college, I sometimes worry about the future. But as I look down the walkway at camp meeting, I am reminded of how God has led in the past, and I worry less about the future. God is good to me.

What Are You.... Waiting For?

You might have noticed the long line last Sabbath afternoon.

Some heard the news and came expectantly. Others saw the line, asked what it was for, and upon hearing the answer joined eagerly. As word spread, the line continued to get longer and longer. A few saw how long the line was and decided it wasn't worth the wait. Still others were unaware that anything was even happening.

As I watched those waiting in this long line, I saw eager anticipation, impatience, boredom, hope, indifference, and much friendly conversation. When each person finally reached the front of the line, I saw joy, satisfaction, and a lot of smiles.

What were they all waiting for? Strawberry Shortcake from the Andrews University cabin! What a wonderful treat. Plus a great time to catch up with old friends and to make new ones.

As I continued watching, I began to think about what we are ultimately waiting for; Christ's return. That's something much more satisfying than strawberry shortcake, and definitely worth the wait! Am I eagerly anticipating? Bored? Indifferent? Hopeful?

Maybe this time next year we'll be sharing "heavenly shortcake" at the greatest camp meeting ever. Hope to see you there!

What Did You Learn At Camp Meeting This Year That Will Make A Difference In Your Life At Home?

I learned how to give Bible studies in Chuck Kohley's class. I wasn't interested in attending a Bible class using a DVD. But after seeing how it works, I'm going home to try it. It's like a small group Bible study.
Larry Peterson

I learned about GLOW. I'm going to pass them out at our fair booth and also add them to orders I ship out from my business. They're great. I also plan to have a testimony time back at church so we can share all the things we learned at camp meeting.
Amy Peterson

I'm really excited about the Holy Spirit! Elder Stefanovic's knowledge and love for God is amazing. After hearing him, I think I can be a prayer warrior when I go home. The Bible says the prayers of a righteous man avails much. I'm not righteous, but the Holy Spirit can work with me, and I'm going to pray.

Donna Peters

Hearing Stefanovic helped me realize how much I need patience. I can't really have the gifts of the Spirit without the fruit of the Spirit.
Jim Hubert

Elder Zeismer in Young Adult talked about how important it was to give your will to God. That's how Jesus was able to remain sinless, and that's how we are to live. It really made sense to me. I want to help my kids understand how important submission of their will is.

Carolyn Carter

A friend and I got talking about trees, and how they are anchored strong and sturdy at the bottom, but flexible to sway in the wind at the top. I can be flexible through the changes in life yet remain anchored and unchangeable in Christ. I like that.
