CAMP LAMP

Monday, June 20

AN INTERVIEW WITH RON CLOUZET

Elder Ron Clouzet, director of the North American Division Evangelism Institute, is our evening speaker.

CAMP LAMP: Tell us about your background.

CLOUZET: I am a fourth generation Adventist, born and raised in Argentina. My parents worked for the church publishing house in Buenos Aires. I emigrated to the United States in 1975 after I'd graduated from academy. I did not know a word of English.

CAMP LAMP: Tell me about when you first found Jesus as your personal Savior.

CLOUZET: After praying with friends during a week of prayer my senior year of academy, I gave my life to Jesus in His service. It was the clearest decision of my early years. I didn't know how, but all I wanted to do was serve Him.

CAMP LAMP: Tell us about your family.

CLOUZET: Lisa and I met at La Sierra University, her freshmen and my senior year. I was a student worker, helping teach Spanish and French. She was in one of my classes, and I noticed her. So, I can say I married my student! We have three young adult children: Christoffer, Alexander, and Stefani.

CAMP LAMP: What led you to the subject of the Holy Spirit for your doctoral study?

CLOUZET: I developed an interest in the Holy Spirit over 20 years ago while pastoring. My book, Adventism's Greatest Need: The Outpouring of the Holy Spirit, tells more about it. I began to study it on my own later, during a sabbatical year in South America, I decided to pursue a formal degree on the subject. The dissertation is called, The Baptism of the Holy Spirit in the Writings and Experience of Ellen G. White and Implications for Adventist Theology.

CAMP LAMP: Has that study changed your thinking?

CLOUZET: Yes, in a number of ways. I have a much more Biblical understanding of the nature and work of the Holy Spirit in our lives. It's also given me an immense respect for the work of Ellen White. It is unequivocally clear to me that only God could lead a woman like that to such clarity of thought in theological thinking, avoiding all the mistakes of giant minds that preceded her.

CAMP LAMP: As director of NAD evangelism, what is your vision for the church in North America?

CLOUZET: Revival and reformation among the churches. I believe a critical mass of people is needed to be totally committed to Jesus before God can work freely and powerfully in our midst. That number need not be great. God can do much with relatively few. The challenge is most of us are good people distracted by the cares of the world. Few know a deep love of God and fewer still know how to live by faith in His promises. When this changes, the work in North America will be done very quickly, and the world will follow.

CAMP LAMP: We have many churches in Wisconsin with less than 100 members. What advice would you give a small church wanting to make a difference in the community?

CLOUZET: First, refuse to be discouraged or give in

Camp Meeting Reflections

Camp Meeting Is.....

Camp Meeting is spiritual renewal, relaxation, and a family reunion.

Barb Krueger

Camp Meeting is family camp and spiritual meeting.

Dan Mertins

Camp Meeting is a convocation for the saints to get together for fellowship with Christ and each other. A time away from the distractions of the world. An opportunity to advance in knowledge.

Joe Dorin

Camp Meeting is peace and beauty! Heaven on earth. Nine days to focus on God without being pulled on by all the stuff in life.

Al Pawlicki

Camp Meeting is my spiritual recharge!

Karen Kind

Camp Meeting is a place where you have an awkward sleep over with your whole church!

Kelly Lorenz

Camp Meeting is where I was baptized and where I met my husband.

to statements like, "We can't grow here", "We don't have enough young people", or "People are not interested in our message". Second, really learn how to pray—together. Third, take considerable time with Jesus each MORNING, and do not compromise that time. Last, pledge as individuals and a church to do any and everything the Lord Jesus makes clear to you. Things are bound to radically change.

CAMP LAMP: How do you see revival and reformation playing out on the local church level? Individual level?

CLOUZET: Personal revival is fundamental to corporate revival but it is not likely to be sustainable at a personal level only. We need each other to be revived. Coming together to plead before the Lord is critical to all this. That's what the disciples had to do in Acts 1. There will never be an Acts 2 before there is an Acts 1.

Quilt Silent Auction

Greetings from Wisconsin Academy! Your school, God's school is in full swing planning for the coming year. The opportunities for friendship, the commitment to Christ, and strong academics will continue to grow with each exciting step forward. Thank you for your continued support and prayers.

As we visit with people here at camp meeting, many inspiring stories are emerging, stories of lives changed by WA, appreciation shared for a dedicated, sacrificing staff and committed team. Fun memories and loads of laughter round out the experience as current and past students gather by the WA cabin.

Feel free to stop by and fill out a contact card or just say hi. Come see the open, friendly face of WA where Christ is everything.

Also, we are running a silent auction on two beautiful, hand-made quilts. The proceeds will go to support the senior class mission trip for 2012. These quilts are made by Yvonne Thomas and Claris Nelson. Come on in and make an offer!

Wisconsin Academy principal

Jumping for Jesus!

"Joshua! Jordan! Jericho!" That was the sound that was heard in front of the Primary tent this past Sabbath morning. The excitement drawing pre-teens was the line up call to see who would be the final survivor to cross over to the promise land. Many of them lined up to play.

One of the finalists was 10-year-old Kennedy Edwards who has been attending camp meeting for the last 6 years. Kennedy is from Indianapolis, IN and is thankful to attend camp meeting. Her grandparents, Harland and Sherry Carey, make it happen for her. "What I like most about camp meeting" Kennedy shared, "is that I can have super fun, enjoy spiritual building activities, and performances that are great." Kennedy also expressed that at camp meeting I can make lot's of friends and it doesn't matter who you are you can meet new people and make friends because every one is so friendly."

Spiritual building activities and friends are helping our primaries experience the life-transforming touch of Jesus and building kids for the kingdom.

Pathfinders Parade

Wisconsin Pathfinders were featured at adult Sabbath School in Pioneer Pavilion, led by Carol and Carroll Wheeler. They emphasized the role of Pathfinders in keeping young people in the church.

Several pathfinders and leaders shared their experiences. Pam King, director of the Madison Mustangs said, "I have grown spiritually as I have seen the young people grow spiritually." Pathfinder teen leader Joshua Guerrero stated that Pathfinders has taught him, "team work, problem solving skills, and how to trust in God." During the year Amber King got a standing ovation at a public school talent contest when she recited from memory II Corinthians 6. Ann Whetstone, director of the Wisconsin Rapids Pathfinders said, "the greatest joy for me is to see how our children and youth are growing into fine Christians as a result of their Christian service."

Pathfinders are an important part in reviving the life of our churches.
