Prophecy Countdown: YouTube Success!

Justin Spady, Wausau district pastor

I have been involved in many evangelistic efforts, and every time I see Jesus work mightily. The fleshly side, however, creeps in at the beginning of every one, and I worry that something will go wrong or no one will show up. I am ashamed to admit it, and by God's grace I will overcome it someday.

On March 30, as we approached 6:45 pm when the live stream for Prophecy Countdown by Tom Michalski, our conference evangelist, was to start, I got those jitters again. Our Antigo church is a smaller congregation, and despite good local effort, I knew the statistics. Even with church members passionately inviting family, friends, co-workers, even enemies, I wondered if we would be disappointed with the turnout. Our conference was trying something new, live-streaming a prophecy seminar from the Waukesha church to be screened at churches all over the state. We did not even have internet at the Antigo church before this! Our new young elder, Justin Hickman, brought this church into the 21st century. Would the technology work? Would people from this small community come? Of course, if even one person came, it would still be a success in the eyes of God, for each person is of infinite value; but I did not want those in Antigo to become discouraged.

It had been years since we had done public evangelism at that church, and a dismal turnout may discourage them from trying ever again. I had seen it before in other small congregations.

But when I pulled into the parking lot, it was already starting to fill up! The greeters and those at the registration table wore big smiles. When I stood up front for the welcome and prayer, I could only remember the pews being fuller for funerals. Once again, God worked miracles with higher turnout than expected.

In the second weekend of Prophecy Countdown, the numbers dropped a bit (as is expected), yet the Antigo church maintained a 75% retention rate. People were learning more about the Bible and about Jesus!

Last year Pastor Michalski conducted in-person seminars at my other two churches, so I was curious how they would compare; we found this live-stream event to be just as much a success. If you wondered if live-streaming a prophecy seminar would work, yes it does! Tom is a dynamic, engaging presenter and his style worked well even over the screen. The crowd laughed and answered him even though we knew he could not hear us.

Prior to the start of these meetings, Pastor Scott Manly, from the Rice Lake District, organized a team of pastors, including myself, to update Pastor Michalski's presentation slides. Thanks to this team, the slides looked slick and still maintained the life-transforming pillars of our faith.

At the host site, the tireless effort by Pastor Myoung Kwon and the A/V team at Waukesha definitely paid off. I imagine there were some mini-crises behind the scenes, attempts the devil made to thwart the work, but we could not tell from our end of the broadcast.

This is the largest evangelistic campaign the Seventh-day Adventist Church has ever attempted in our state. And, the reach of this message is still yet to be seen! While it was screened live at churches around the state, the series is still available online to share with those interested in Bible prophecy.

You can find the recordings at this YouTube channel: youtube.com/channel/UCSvmOHLNz4HAhSpgip9sLsA

Please pray for those working hard to follow-up with interests from Prophecy Countdown.

Question of the Day

WHO IN YOUR LIFE SHOWS GOD'S LOVE TO THOSE AROUND THEM? AND IN WHAT WAYS?

Ava Case - She shows her kindness and love; and her love for the Bible.

Hadassah Ramirez
Green Bay Church

A dear friend who shows their love to people through the gift of hospitality. What a blessing to be on the receiving end of their gift!

Karen White
Wisconsin Academy Church

My mom - through her acts of service in the home and community.

Teresa Schaezka
Wisconsin Academy Church

My husband, Pastor Evelio Miranda. The way he shows God's love is by helping others with any need, whether at church or home. For example, if a brother comes to ask him for help or advice, he leaves everything he is doing to help that person, right at that very moment. At home, it is the same, he laves everting he is doing to meet any need of the family. I always thank God for my husband and for this characteristic he has.
