

Watertown Recognizes the Adventurer Advantage

Why start an Adventure Club? Isn't life busy enough? Sara Mertins, Adventurer Club director for the Watertown Church, believes the advantages of having an Adventurer Club are worth all the effort. "I really feel we need to be doing things together outside of church time," said Sara. "Getting together and building relationships with other church people during the week is really important. With Adventurers, we are doing something that is church related and fun. Kids need to know church things can be fun."

Watertown is a small church, and Sara teaches a combined Sabbath School for the children each week. Several years ago when looking for more nature and character building activities to add to her program, Sara discovered the Adventurer Club curriculum. She began incorporating select nature and Bible activities along with some Adventurer Awards. The children loved it! After a year Sara began holding regular club meetings one day a week in her home. "The children are eager to attend club meetings to play together and work on projects," said Sara. "They look forward to it and have developed a sense of camaraderie and community, which we all need to foster."

Throughout the year Adventurers complete Bible lessons, memorize Scripture verses, visit shut-ins, help people with projects, and many other activities designed to develop social skills and turn their hearts toward others and Jesus. During the summer months the six-member Adventurer Club and eight member Pathfinder Club join together for weekly activities such as rafting down a river, going on a bike ride, playing softball, visiting a museum, swimming in a lake, skiing, camping, and plans are made to visit an alpaca farm. These activities allow the children to socialize with like-minded people outside of church time. Every second Sabbath of the month, Adventurers, along with Pathfinders, wear their uniforms and help lead out in the church service.

The Adventurer advantage is being felt in Watertown with a strengthened sense of church community and positive parent/child relationships. The children's thoughts, motives, dispositions, and attitudes, are maturing, and they are enjoying positive experiences with other children as they express their love for Jesus in a natural way.

Adventurers serves children with six class levels: Little Lambs (age 4), Eager Beavers (age 5), Busy Bees (age 6), Sunbeam (age 7), Builders (age 8), and Helping Hands (age 9). If you are interested in learning more of how an Adventurer Club might benefit your church family, contact Eric Chavez, youth director for the Wisconsin Conference. @ echavez@wi.adventist.org.

Proportion of Our Success

Yesterday I arrived at the airport a couple of hours early for my flight back home. When I got to my gate it was empty except for one middle-aged lady sitting in a wheelchair. Over the next hour and a half we engaged in a lively, friendly conversation. In the course of the conversation she found out I was a Seventh-day Adventist. She told me of her health struggles, which included cancer. When I shared with her that my wife was also dealing with cancer and was receiving medical treatments, which seem to be working well, she looked at me puzzled. "Are you not like Jehovah's Witnesses regarding medical treatment?" I shared with her that we embrace healthful living as a part of our understanding of the teachings of Scripture, and told her of the many Adventist hospitals and clinics around the country including Loma Linda Medical Center. She recognized Loma Linda, but did not know it was Adventist.

She then said "I never figured out why people worship on Sunday." We talked a little bit out about Sabbath in the Bible, and how both political and religious factors had led many in the past to begin worship on the first day of the week.

As we moved on to other issues I reviewed in my mind, my prayer earlier yesterday morning. "Lord, may I meet someone today that I can be a witness to." God provided an answer at the airport.

I could have turned to several Scripture passages to "prove" Sabbath to the lady. Rather I chose to listen to her share of the pain of her medical challenges, which opened the door for deeper conversation, and her own statements of faith. My prayer is that through out conversation she came to a new understanding about the Bible and Seventh-day Adventists from a person who cared for her.

"We live in a hard, unfeeling, uncharitable world. Satan and his confederacy are plying every art to seduce the souls for whom Christ has given His precious life. Every one who loves God in sincerity and truth, will love the souls for whom Christ has died. If we wish to do good to souls, our success with these souls will be in proportion to their belief in our belief in, and appreciation of, them. "Fundamentals of Christian Education p. 281

May God place someone in your path today that you can reveal His love in real and concrete ways.

Pastor Zachary Payne Ordination

Pastor Payne was ordained to the gospel ministry on the second Sabbath of camp meeting at Camp Wakonda on June 22, 2019. Below is a portion of his testimony.

"Looking back on my journey thus far, it's amazing to see what God has done in my life. At 30, I have spent almost half of my life responding to God's calling, and I can tell you that the times I embrace it are the times I really see the power of His Spirit working in my life. It is my hope to always follow His calling to the best of my ability, and I would encourage anyone to do the same.

"Ordination to me is a confirmation that when the Lord said, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us," my answer was like Isaiah's, "Here I am, send me." (Isaiah 6:8) But that call and my response is nothing new. I've been at this for a while. It all started cutting weeds at a summer camp in 2005, and eventually (by God's grace) I find myself as the senior pastor of a district of churches. The point being, we don't answer the call to be recognized. We answer because the God of the universe wants to include us in His plans to seek and save the lost. He is calling you, as you read this right now. How do you respond?"

New Lay Pastor for Kenosha Company

George Andrews recently agreed to be lay pastor of the Kenosha Company, and is grateful to the Lord for the opportunity. George loves to serve the Lord and share how God can give people the answers and peace they want in their lives. "I've been in management and leadership all my life," said George. "I've had a lot of influence. Unfortunately, much of it has been negative influence, but now it is a positive influence because of Jesus in my life."

George has experienced many bad situations, and now as he sees others experiencing tough times he tells them there is always hope. He's discovered nobody is beyond the Lord's repair. He first began coming to church sitting in the back pew, tired, weak, hurting, and searching. But in time, God repaired him and lead him to be a deacon, then an elder, head elder, and now a lay pastor. "I love to help keep people focused on the Lord," said George. "I figure my life experiences are preparation for my destination."

During the week George manages four campuses for Gateway Technical College, interviewing, hiring, and training their custodial & janitorial services. He also owns his own private janitorial services business.

George and his wife, Theresa, enjoy a blended family of eight children and 24 grandchildren. In his free time he enjoys golfing and taking his grandchildren fishing.

FINANCIAL UPDATE

We now have our offering reports completed through the month of June. Our tithe is showing a decrease of -4.76% and our Wisconsin Budget is down -7.86. Both of these figures represent results year to date. For our camp meeting offerings, we received a little over $9,000. In addition we received just over $18,000 for Wisconsin Evangelism. As you may remember we have a goal to raise $60,000 a year to support our full time conference evangelist. With total offerings given to Wisconsin Evangelism thru June we have received $27,200. With six months to go and your faithful support, I trust that goal will be reached.

God has a great work for His church and His people. The book Education, page 137, says, "That which lies at the foundation of business integrity and of true success is the recognition of God's ownership. The Creator of all things, He is the original proprietor. We are His stewards. All that we have is a trust from Him, to be used according to His direction. This is an obligation that rests upon every human being. It has to do with the whole sphere of human activity. Whether we recognize it or not, we are stewards, supplied from God with talents and facilities and placed in the world to do a work appointed by Him." May God bless as we seek to fulfill His mission.

from the principal's desk:

The Work of Preparation

It seems like we just graduated seventeen wonderful young people, but here we are in the countdown for school year 2019-2020 to begin. This will be the seventieth year that our school has been on the campus in Columbus, and it is great to think of how many of you graduated from this wonderful school.

Well over one hundred years ago, Mrs. White wrote these words, "The admonition to 'search the Scriptures' was never more appropriate than at the present time. This is an age of unrest, and the youth drink deeply of its spirit. Would that they could be made to realize the importance and the peril of the position they occupy! ... Never were such momentous issues before any generation as await the one now coming upon the stage of action. Never were the youth of any age or country so earnestly observed by the angels of God as are the youth of today. All heaven is watching with intense interest for every indication of the characters they are forming—whether when brought to the test they will stand firmly for God and the right, or be swayed by worldly influences ...

God has a great work to be done in a short time. He has committed to the young, talents of intellect, time, and means, and He holds them responsible for the use they make of these good gifts. He calls upon them to come to the front, to resist the corrupting, bewitching influences of this fast age and to become qualified to labor in His cause. They cannot become fitted for usefulness without putting heart and energy into the work of preparation." - The Youth's Instructor, May 7, 1884.

How much more relevant are these words now, and how many more challenges do our young people face in these final days of earth's history.

We are praying God will send those young people He knows need to be at the academy and that both staff and students will understand better how much He loves us and wants us to be in that saving and life-changing relationship with Him. We are greatly encouraged to know that many of you are praying for and with us, and we ask that you will continue to be a part of this great work of evangelism.
